

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

To Pascaline.
Love, I would sing a song of my dreaming—
Listen, be kind, Harp-sung on sun-strings, told to the leaves,
Stirred by the wind:
Spring vells the earth in its garment of youth—
Wondrous her face!
Dear, you are like the fair Spring in all truth,
Wearing her grace,
Show me the depth of her peace in your eyes,
Tender and blue,
Show me the purpose of growth in the deeds,
Gentle, you do;
Blossoms bend fragrant 'neath tears of the dew,
Clouds flit above, Open your true heart to let in Life's Dawn
Glowing with love,
Fascinate, hark to the cry of my soul:
Chaste as is meet;
Thrilled on a bird's note—hushed like a prayer—Bobbed at your feet—Come to me, dear, as Spring comes to the earth, Tremulous—sweet—
Rapturous—seeking the path of the gods—
Come—Come—

Delinctor.

Poems You Ought to Know.

Whatever your occupation may be, and however crowded your hours with affairs, do not fail to secure at least a few minutes every day for refreshment of your inner life with a bit of poetry.—Prof. Charles Eliot Norton.

No. 838.

THE SLEEPER.

By POE.

When Poe was living he was not rated high as a poet. His fame has increased since his death, until now many critics consider him the representative original force in American verse. One of his best poems, together with his portrait, autograph and biographical sketch, have already been printed in this series.
Lillie (Le-lie, the accent on the first) was a mythical river; the touch of the waters made one forget the past.

At midnight, in the month of June,
I stand beneath the mystic moon.
An opiate vapor, dewy, dim, Exhaled from out her golden rim,
And, softly dripping, drop by drop,
Upon the quiet mountain-top,
Steals drowsily and musically
Into the universal valley.
The rosemary nods upon the grave;
The lily lolls upon the wave;
Wrapping the fog about its breast,
The ruin moulders into rest;
Looking like Lethe, sweet and lake A conscious slumber seems to take,
And would not, for the world, awake.
All boundly sleeps! and lo! where lies (Her casement open to the skies) Irene with her Destinies!

O lady bright! can it be right,
This window open to the night?
The wanton air, from the tree-top, Laughingly through the lattice drop;
The bodiless airs, a wizard rout, Flit through thy chamber, in and out,
And wave the curtain-canopy
So fitfully, so fearfully Above the closed and fringed lid
'Neath which thy slumbering soul lies hid,
That, o'er the floor and down the wall,
Like ghosts the shadows rise and fall.
O lady dear, hast thou no fear?
Why and what art thou dreaming here?
Sure thou art come o'er far-off seas,
A wonder to these garden-trees!
Strange is thy pallor—strange thy dress—
Strange, above all, thy length of tress,
And this all-solemn silence!

The lady sleeps. Oh! may her sleep,
Which is enduring, so be deep!
Heaven have her in its sacred-keep!
This chamber changed for one more holy,
This bed for one more melancholy,
I pray to God that she may lie Forever with unopened eye, While the pale sheeted ghosts go by!
My love, she sleeps. Oh! may her sleep,
As it is lasting, so be deep.
Soft may the worms about her creep!
Far in the forest, dim and old,
For her may some tall vault unfold—
Some vault that oft hath flung its black And winged panels, fluttering back, Triumphant, o'er the crested pall,
Of her grand family funerals,
Some scutcheon, remote, alone,
Against whose portals she hath thrown,
In childhood, many an idle stone—
Some tomb from out whose sounding door
She ne'er shall force an echo more,
Thrilling to think, poor child of sin,
It was the dead who groaned within.

This series began in The Times-Dispatch Sunday, Oct. 11, 1903. One is published each day.

suffering from the effects of a hard spree. He was about forty-five years

THE ARTISANS AT THEIR WORK

Delegates Drank from Pellucid Waters of the Old Indian Spring.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NORFOLK, VA., June 9.—On the last day of the conference in Norfolk, the Virginia State Epworth League, at the invitation of the managers of the Jamestown Exposition, visited the grounds at Sewell's Point, and were shown an exposition of the progress of its building.
The delegates to the conference, who under the immediate charge of Mr. J. W.
Borum, of Norfolk, vice-president of the league, who, as chairman of the Committee of Entertainment, was looking after the comfort and pleasure of the delegates, Mr. Borum was assisted by his duties by several officials of the Exposition. The Atlantic Terminal Railway placed several cars at the disposal of the league, by which they were conveyed to and from the grounds.

Plan of the Grounds.

After a large photograph had been taken of the delegates while grouped in front of the administration building, Mr.
C. H. Pratt, superintendent of the grounds, guided the leaguers over the beautiful park in which the Exposition is arising. They were shown over the now almost completed arts and crafts building, and expressed their interest in and admiration of this unique feature of the Exposition.

Under the spreading branches of the great oak, Powhatan, Mr. Pratt made a little talk to the visitors, explaining to them by diagrams and maps the plan of the grounds and the progress of the various buildings. As the leaguers were all from Virginia they took especial interest in the site chosen for the Virginia building on the shore of Hampton Roads, the erection of which will begin at once.

Artisans at Work.

The manufacture of the buildings, and arrangement of the grounds, which is proceeding in great haste, is being supervised by Mr. Pratt, who is assisted by the artisans at work. They were likewise piloted through the "Lovers' Lane," and drank of the pellucid water of the old Indian Spring. They saw the winding canoe trail which winds through a large section of the grounds.

FOR NERVOUS PEOPLE

A Michigan Mother Preserved to Her Family by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

When the blood is impoverished the nerves starve and neuralgia or something more serious swiftly follows. Nervous people are generally pale people. My wife was always thin and was so nervous that she could not bear to hear a door slam or a bell ring—even the little bird in its cage would annoy me. My heart fluttered a great deal and I had dizzy spells.
I was not able to be left alone.

My doctor gave me different kinds of medicine, charging it several times.
When it was evident that he could not help me he said he did not understand my case. This was three years ago and I was very much discouraged, when my brother, who had taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, recommended them to me. I tried them and noticed a change for the better when I was taking the second box.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured me and I have been well ever since. I now do all my own housework, sewing and washing for seven of us.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have also cured diseases caused by impure or im-poorly digested blood such as rheumatism, anemia and after-effects of the grip.

All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or the remedy will be mailed, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, to Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

following the natural line of depression made by Bush Creek and its tributaries.
The Epworth Leaguers and their friends were most impressed with the extent of the grounds, the superb beauty of the situation, and the progress made in the upbuilding of the exposition, which most of them will make a point of visiting in 1907, when the present chrysalis shall have completed its metamorphosis and become perfected.

AT WILLIAM AND MARY.

Annual Sermon Preached Last Night Before College Y. M. C. A.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WILLIAMSBURG, VA., June 10.—The annual sermon before the Young Men's Christian Association of William and Mary College was delivered this evening at 8 o'clock in the college chapel by Rev. Dr. J. S. Foster, pastor of Taber Street Presbyterian Church, of Petersburg. The chapel was decorated in college colors, as it was the morning for the baccalaureate sermon, but the numerous brilliant electric lights shining through the folds of the decorations gave an added brilliancy to the scene and made it very inspiring.

Dr. Foster is a man of great personal magnetism, and his sermon was listened to with the closest attention by the large audience, which completely filled the chapel and library. He delivered the prettiest piece of oratory probably that has ever come from the pulpit in Williamsburg.

Proceeding the sermon, the services were opened by Rev. W. A. R. Goodwin, pastor of Bruton Church. In a short prayer he was followed by Rev. D. T. Merritt, who read the Scripture lesson.

Dr. Foster in his sermon outlined the relation of religion to State, home and the world at large in an interesting manner. He also outlined the work and advantages of the Young Men's Christian Association, and showed their importance in college life.

Upon closing his sermon, he offered up a short prayer.

The singing was of the choicest kind, being rendered by a choir selected from the Young Men's Christian Association.
Dr. Charles Bishop, of the faculty, presided at the organ.

has just concluded one of its busiest and most successful seasons. Probably no other branch of the Young Men's Christian Association anywhere in Virginia takes a better stand or does better work than this. It is a young man, the highest standard of the students of William and Mary and the reputation the college holds for morality and clean work is probably due to no other cause so much as to the influence of the Young Men's Christian Association.

pink crepe tulle, making a very pretty effect. Music was furnished by a quartet consisting of violin, piano, guitar and soprano, and a large number of the students participated in the dance.
The beautiful moonlight and good weather brought many guests from a distance. Several trolley parties came in from Newkirk, Clanton and Ivy, making the hop a very large and enjoyable affair.

CHILHOWIE, VA., June 10.—The Symphonies Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, were delightfully entertained Wednesday at the home of Mrs. James D. Tate. Mrs. Tate, who was Miss Lee, of Lynchburg, a member of that grand old family of which every Virginian is proud, is as dainty and beautiful as a bit of Dresden china, and her home is a fit setting for so rare a treasure, and those who have been her guests know that she is a faultless hostess. "Terrace Hall," the lovely home of the Tates, was like a part of Fairland. Mrs. Tate was assisted in receiving by her daughter, Mrs. Tate, her cousin, Miss Mary Graham. A more charming and attractive trio could hardly be found, and as they flitted here and there among the guests, they added brightness and happiness to a scene that was already well-nigh perfect.

After the business meeting of the chapter the guests were given a series of most delightful surprises. Games of several kinds were brought out, but "Angling" was the favorite, and fourteen tables were arranged. The scores were kept by gifts of every amazing variety, most of them novel in character—wreaths of white roses, gold and silver implements, rare flowers growing in fascinating nourishers, flags of our country, fans, etc.

Miss White, of Paris, Tenn., won the prize a lovely burnt-wood tray. Then came refreshments—delicious salads, pates, club sandwiches with grape punch, with chocolate shavings, continental hats, flags and other patriotic emblems gave up to the delighted guests, such delicacies as West India preserves, almonds and bonbons of various kinds. Magnificent roses,
